

Reading A-Z

A Reading A-Z Decodable Book • Word Count: 292

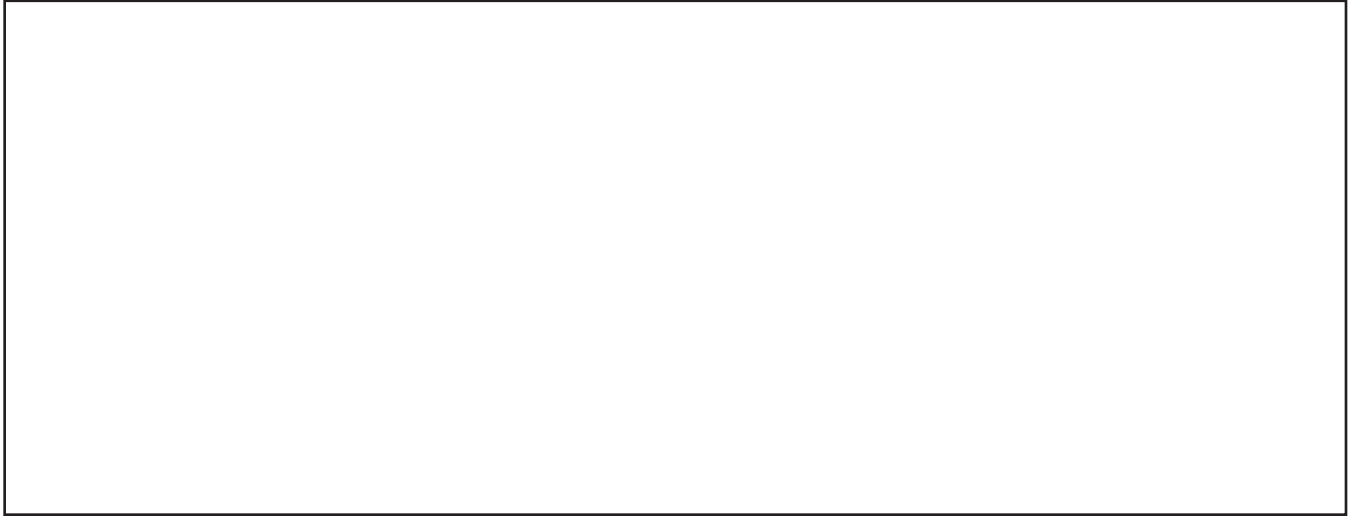

Click, Cluck, and Quack

DECODABLE • 48

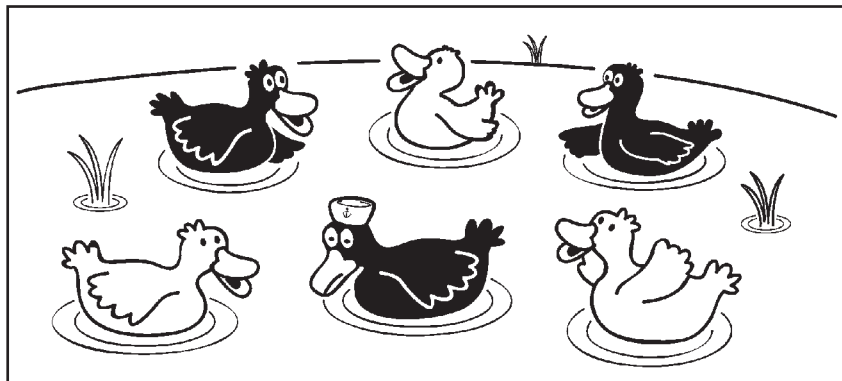

Click, Cluck, and Quack

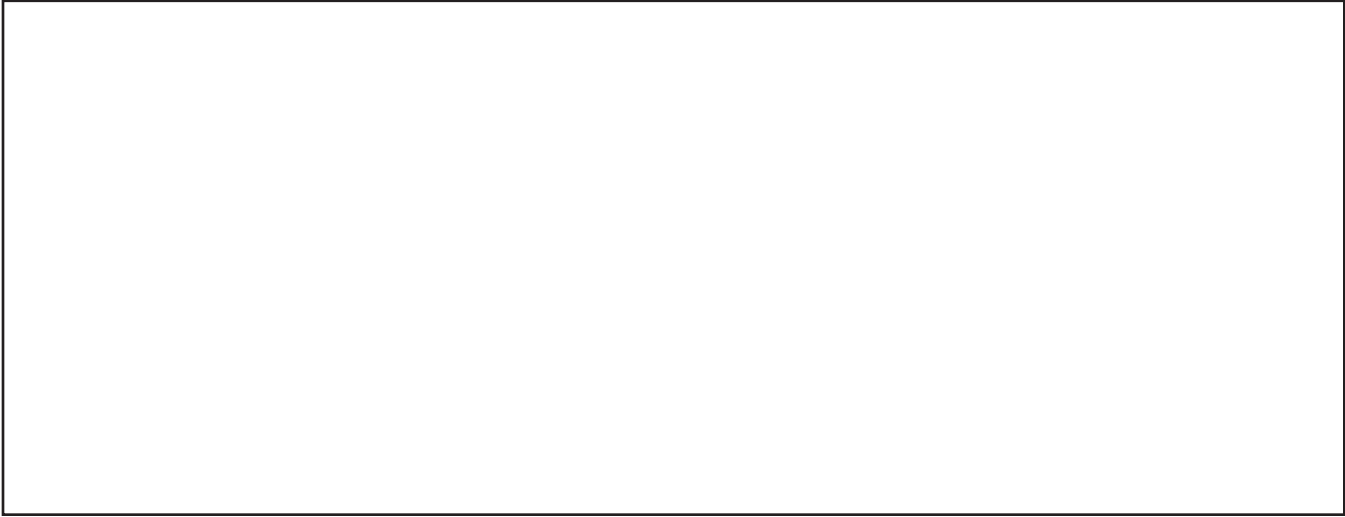

Written by Katie Knight • Illustrated by Fred Volke

Click, Cluck, and Quack

Written by Katie Knight
Illustrated by Fred Volke

ELEMENTS USED IN THIS BOOK

New phonic element ck digraph

Words with new phonic element back, black, check, Chuck, click, cluck, duck, Jack, pack, peck, quack, rock, hack, sick, snack, stack, Vick

Reviewed phonic elements long vowel VCe patterns; consonant digraphs sh, ch

Story words chicken, cricket, hello, instead, racket, says, thought

New high-frequency words funny, now, other

Special considerations inflectional endings -ed, -ing, -s; plural ending -s; possessive 's;

Now no one was sad.
 And she gave Jack's cluck to Vick.
 and Vick's click to Chuck.
 The vet gave Chuck's quack to Jack
 Chuck, Vick, and Jack went to see a vet.

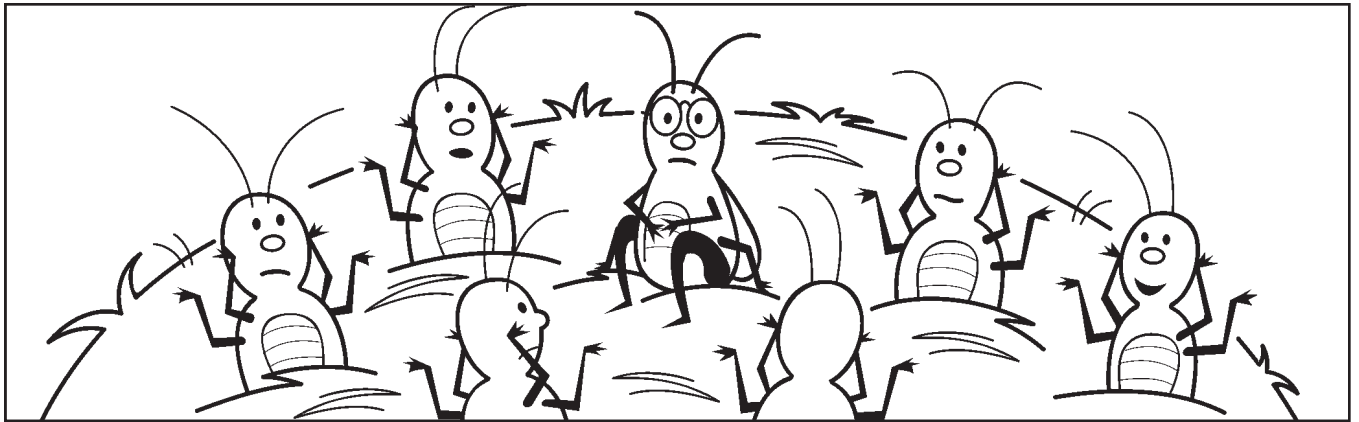

Chuck is a cricket.
 Chuck lives with a pack of crickets.
 They live in a stack of grass.

Chuck stopped to think.
 He thought, "I know a chicken that clicks,
 a duck that clucks, and I'm a cricket that quacks.
 Can we trade the click, cluck, and quack?"

Chuck was not like other crickets.
 He did not go click, click.
 Instead, Chuck went quack, quack.

Chuck went to Vick's shack.
 He saw Vick pecking the sand.
 She said, "Click, click."
 "How funny," thought Chuck.
 "That chicken says click and not cluck."

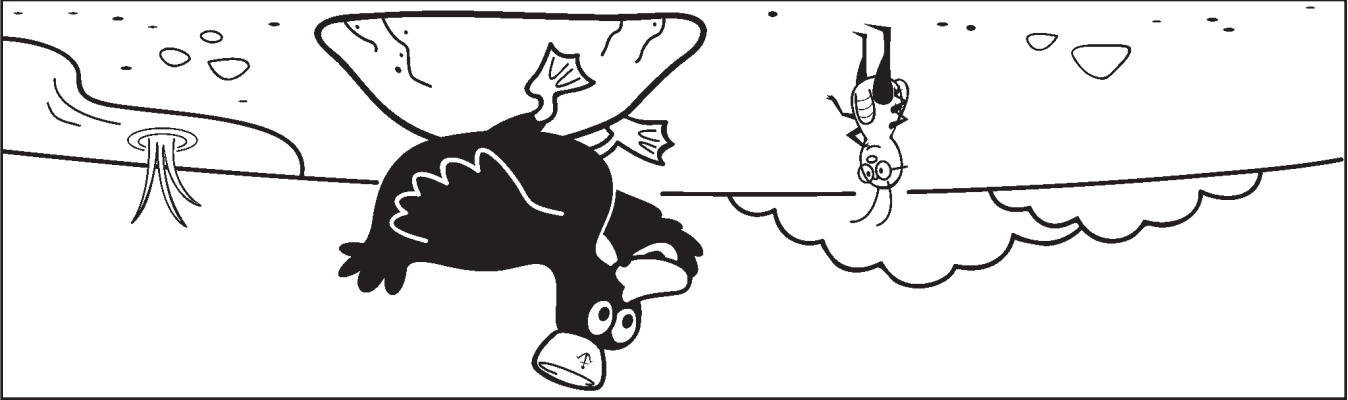

Other crickets made fun of his quacking.
 They said he made too much racket.

This made Chuck sad.
 He was so sad that he felt sick.

“How funny,” thought Jack.
 “This duck says quack and not click.”

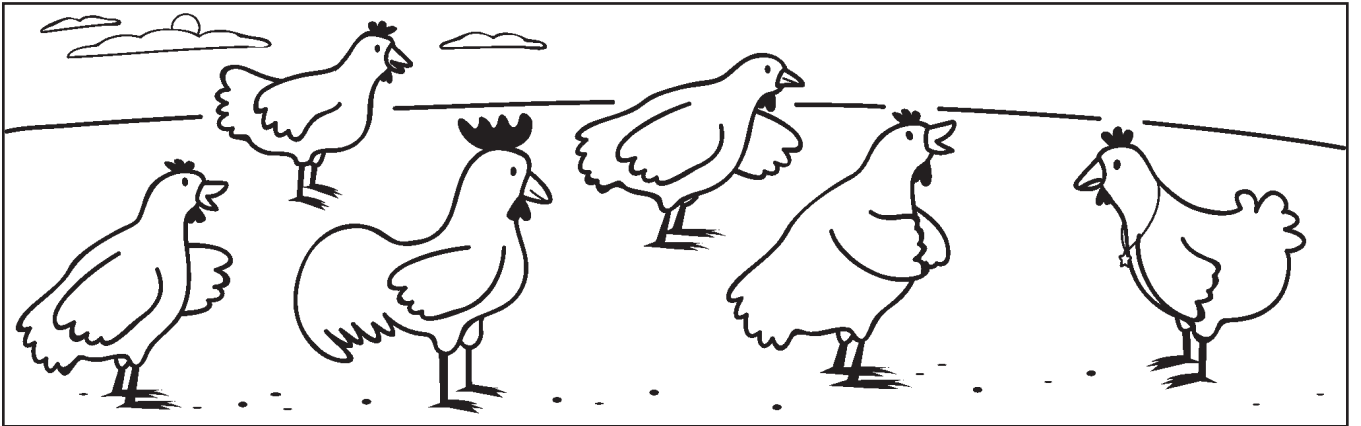

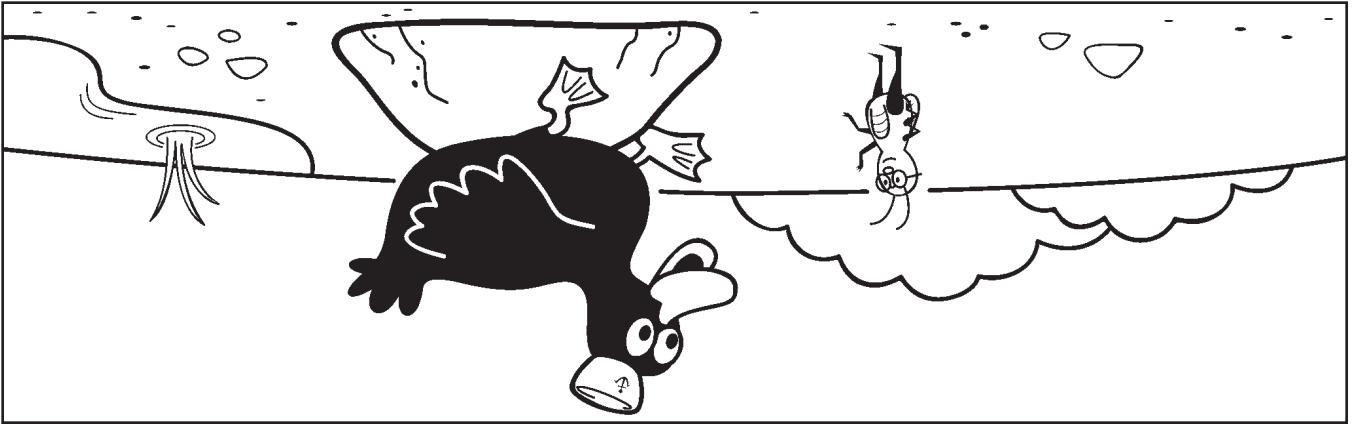

“How funny,” thought Chuck.
 “This duck says cluck and not quack.”

Vick the chicken lived in a shack in back of a lake.

She did not go cluck, cluck like other chickens.
 Instead, Vick went click, click.

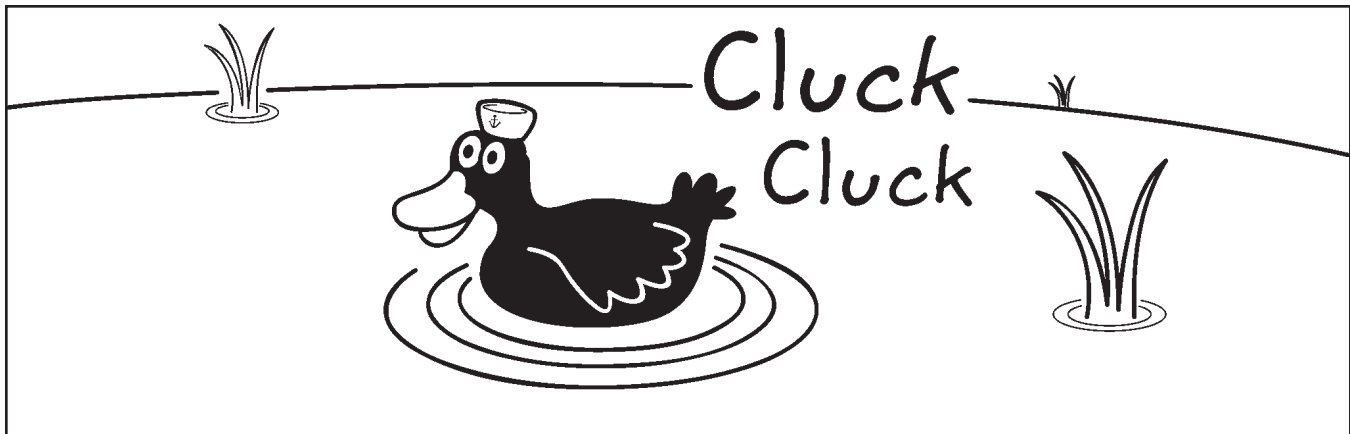

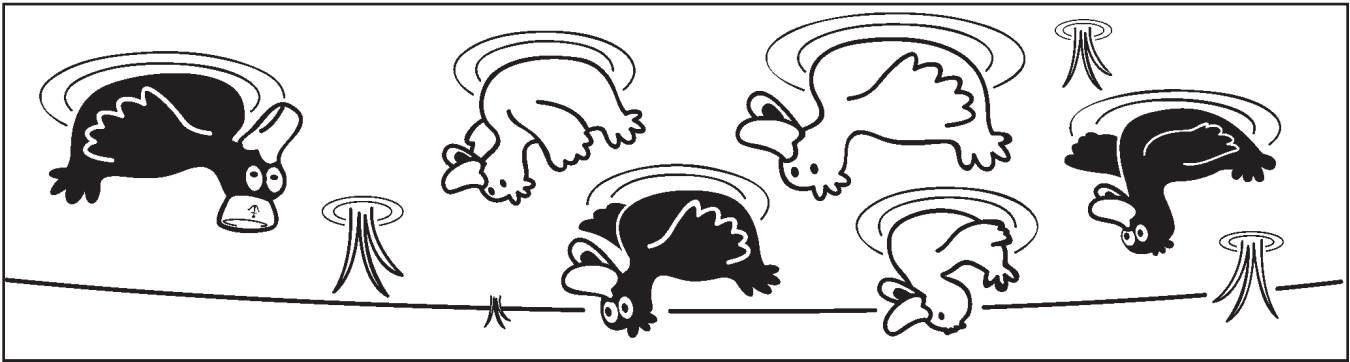

One day Chuck went to look for a snack.
 He saw Jack the duck sitting on a rock.
 "Hello," said Chuck with a quack.
 "Hello," said Jack with a cluck.

Other chickens made fun of Vick.
 "You make too much racket," they said.

This made Vick sad.
 She was so sad that she felt sick.

Other ducks made fun of Jack.
 “Check out that duck’s clucking racket,” they said.
 Jack was sad, too.

Jack the black duck lived on a pond.
 He did not go quack, quack
 like other ducks.
 Instead, Jack went cluck, cluck.